1. Geographical location

Casablanca is sited in the Chawiya Plain, which in history has been the breadbasket of Morocco. It is one of the largest financial centers on the African continent and the Port of Casablanca is one of the largest artificial ports in the world. Situated in the central-western part of the country on the Atlantic Ocean, Casablanca serves as the naval base for the Royal Moroccan Navy.

2. Neighbouring cities/countries

The Neighboring Cities Of Casablanca Are Rabat With An Approximate Distance Of 90 Kilometers, Khenifra With A Distance Of 195 Kilometers, Safi With An Approximate Distance Of 210 Kilometers And Marrakesh With An Approximate Distance Of 220 Kilometers.

3. Significance

Being Morocco's chief port, Casablanca is the largest financial centre of the African continent. Casablanca is home to main industrial zone of the Kingdom of Morocco, and all the leading Moroccan and international corporations have their headquarters in the coastal city. From a tourist front also, Casablanca will never fail to boggle you with its perfect blend of the contemporary world and the traditional world. You might be scared for fraction of seconds, on arrival. But, trust me! The city has its own charm and unique personality. The city is tangled and baffled with snake charmers, busy bazaars and souks, exotic music, rejuvenating hammam massages and spas, and vendors all over the place. The city offers a vibrant and lively atmosphere to its every visitor and the nightlife in Casablanca is something that you cannot miss out on.

4. History

The history of the city of Casablanca has witnessed many political and cultural changes. It has been administered by Berber, Roman, Portuguese, Arab, Spanish, British, French and Moroccan regimes. Being a port city in the region, it holds a significant position in the history of the city. Until the 5th century, Berbers established the Port of Anfa and continued their operations at the port. By the 8th century, Anfa was taken over by the Berber Kingdom of Barghawata, followed by the Amoravids in the 11th century. Another Berber dynasty, the Merinids utilized the port as a vital one, leading to restoration of the significance of the town. It was destroyed by the Portuguese in 1468 AD and in the 16th century, a fortress was built there. In 1770, Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Abdallah, built the Medina and it is said that the Spanish aided the construction. Casablanca grew through trade with Europe in the 19th century, only until the French conquered the city at the beginning of the 20th century. Casablanca boasts some of the most extraordinary art deco architecture in the world, which were built back then, under the French rule. In 1956, Morocco gained independence from France and the coastal city has grown into the financial centre of the Kingdom of Morocco.

Index5. Cultural identity

To experience the true taste of the local culture, visit the souks in the medina (old and ancient city, surrounded by walls). People in Casablanca are very warm and hospitable. If you happen to have a conversation with the owners of the stalls, they may invite you for a cup of tea, typically a mint tea. Casablanca is a very vibrant city which observes many events all year round. The city leaves no stone unturned to unleash the young talent. Various music, art and dance events are organized in the coastal city of Morocco. Watch out event calendar for more details. Homosexuality is a punishable offense in Casablanca. Gay and lesbian travelers need to be very mindful of their conduct in public areas. Also, people of Casablanca have a reserved attitude to alcohol. Drinking is allowed only at certain designated and licensed areas.

Index6. Natural resources

Casablanca is home to copious iron ore and coal. The other natural resources found in the city are manganese, lead, salt and phosphate. Pounded by Atlantic waves, the coastal city serves some mouthwatering seafood, which is worth every penny!

Index19. Shopping

Casablanca is eminent for its dark and fragrant medinas teeming with spices, traditional pastries and handmade goods. Buy leather goods, craft ware and superb carpets from the souks, which are generally of good quality and inexpensive. Be vigilant of not being tricked by the seller, especially in the Old Medina, with the maneuvers of replacing inferior goods for the actual goods bought. Souks and street markets can be sited at various locations across the city and suburbs.

20. Tourist benefits

On most goods and services in Morocco, 20% is the standard rate of Value Added Tax which is charged. At retail stores, the price is inclusive of VAT. If a tourist makes a purchase of $50.00 or more at a gift store that has an agreement with the VAT authorities of Morocco, then by filling a tax invoice at the store and getting it stamped, tourist is eligible to claim VAT refund at the airport before departure. All he need to do is represent the form and goods at the airport. Don't pack these gift items in your luggage and keep it in your hand luggage. Also, a tourist is exempted from VAT tax on tourist services like hotel accommodation and meals, if he pays with foreign currency.

Index21. Essential local apps

Download your personal travel advisor in your phone, in the form of Casablanca City Guide, whilst exploring the city of Casablanca. It is a totally free app which renders up to date data about the city. Download Uber to book a cab or a taxi and get a ride to your destination in minutes. To notify your Facebook friends if something goes wrong, download Yalahwy and your friends will mobilize to come at your rescue.

22. Driving

Driving in Casablanca may not be a good experience for you if you are from a country where drivers abide by the traffic rules and make sure of disciplined driving. Seldom people in Casablanca follow the traffic rules and driving here may be hazardous to your health because the roads are not well maintained in the city and people drive haphazardly. Every vehicle from another country, which is driven in Casablanca, must display the nationality plate of its country of registration, and you must always carry proof of ownership of a private vehicle while driving it. As per Moroccan law, it is mandatory to have a Green Card as a proof of insurance. To rent a car in Casablanca, you must have a driving license which is valid in your country of residence. But, if you are driving a local car, you need a writing and certified documents from your friend for driving his car. You need to stamp these documents by local city council.

Index25. Local currency

Moroccan Dirham is the official currency of Morocco. It is denoted as MAD or Dhs. The Moroccan Dirham comprises of 100 centimes. 1USD= 9.77 Moroccan Dirham.

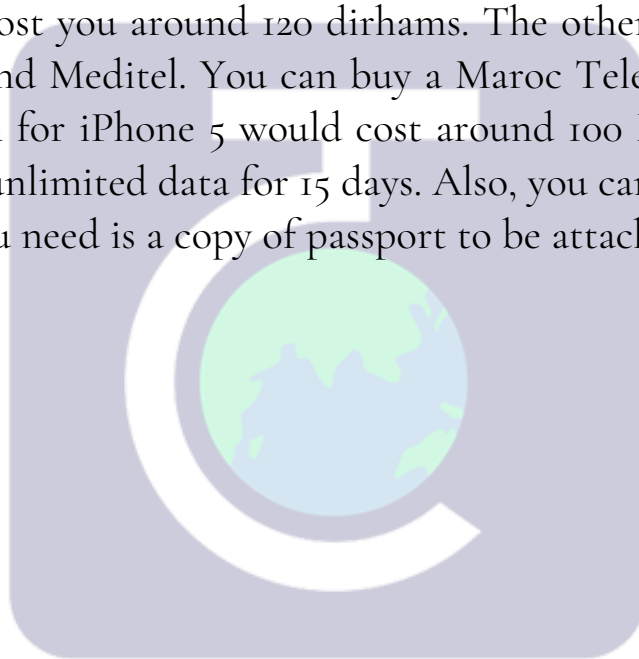

26. Change vendor's commission, ATM charges

Authorized banks and Bureau de Change remain the best source of exchanging currency. Nonetheless, one can change currency at hotels too. Also, for convenience, private exchange agencies are located at several areas downtown and in the suburbs. The exchange rate remains constant everywhere. For currency exchange in Casablanca, get some new “home currency”, as torn notes and notes with pen marks are not eligible for exchange. No commission is charged for currency exchange. Also, being a close currency, you can't get dirhams into the country. You need to exchange currency on arrival. ATMs are in abundance in the city. They accept all major card types. Recheck with your bank for information regarding the commission on withdrawal of money. Every time you swipe card in different bank's ATM, a fee up to 5% or more is charged. 3000 dirhams is the cash withdrawal limit for a day. At major tourist spots, credit cards are accepted. But, the extent of their acceptance and the types accepted varies. It is advisable to inform your card provider of your travel plans. Working days for banks in Casablanca are from Sunday to Friday. On Saturday, banks remain closed. Typical banking hours of banks are from 08:15hrs to 15:45hrs.

Index27. Staying connected

Be careful while using your “home sim” in Casablanca as there is very little regulation on pricing, and telecommunication companies tend to charge hyper-inflated prices. INWI is one of the largest telecommunication companies in Morocco. In the airport arrival hall, the company has a booth, where you can purchase a sim card for your unlocked phone. One GB data, 3 hours of local calls and 1000 texts will cost you around 120 dirhams. The other two main providers are Maroc telecom and Meditel. You can buy a Maroc Telecom 3G card for 250 MAD and a nanosim for iPhone 5 would cost around 100 MAD. It offers you a few phone calls and unlimited data for 15 days. Also, you can buy a Meditel kiosk at the airport. All you need is a copy of passport to be attached with the contract for documentation.

28. Time Zone

Morocco time zone: Western European Time Zone (UTC+00:00).

Index29. Languages

The official language in Casablanca is Classical Arabic and Moroccan Arabic (known as Darija). The city's main unofficial language is French, which is spoken by apparently every merchant, taxi driver and kid. Moroccan's proficiency for English and other popular languages deserves a bow.

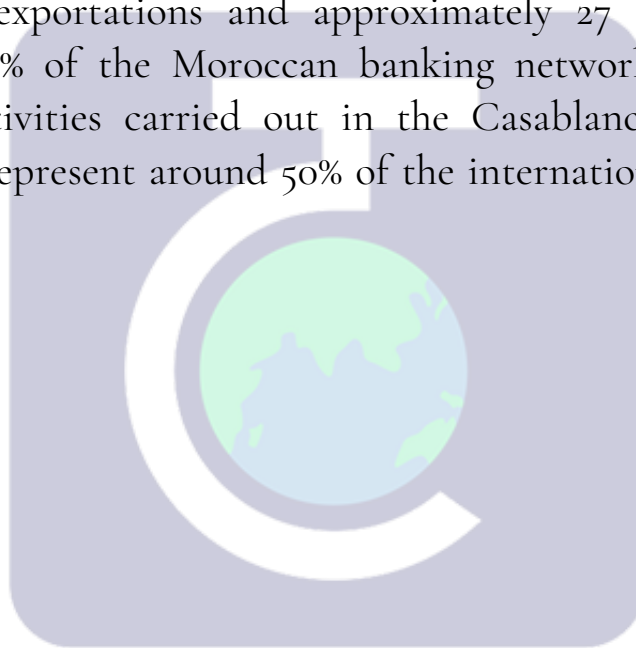

30. Political Scenario

Morocco is a constitutional monarchy with an elected parliament. During parliamentary election in November 2011, the moderate Islamist Justice and Development Party (PJD) lived the unquestionable victory by doubling the number of seats since 2007. Mohammed VI came to power after his father, King Hassan II's death in 1999. His approach is more democratic and liberal unlike his father. Morocco's political system is wisely budding from a strongly centralized monarchy to a parliamentary system. Much of the executive power lies with the king, but parliament is elected democratically.

31. Economic Scenario

The Grand Casablanca, the, locomotive of the development of the Moroccan economy, attracts 32% of the country's production units and 56% of industrial labor. The region operates by utilizing 30% of the national electricity production and contributes to 44% of the industrial production of the kingdom of Morocco with 93 billion Moroccan dirhams. The Grand Casablanca backs around 33% of national industrial exportations and approximately 27 billion of Moroccan dirhams. Around 30% of the Moroccan banking network is concentrated in Casablanca. The activities carried out in the Casablanca and Mohammedia seaports vigorously represent around 50% of the international commercial flows of Morocco.

Index32. Religious belief

Religious practices of people in Casablanca involve a syncretism of Islam and traditional folk beliefs. Majority of people living in Casablanca are Muslims and the vast majority of Muslims are Sunni belonging to Maliki School of jurisprudence. Christianity is worshipped as the second largest religion in Casablanca and it is existent in the country before the arrival of Islam.

33. Visa requirements

Every visitor apart from British, Canadian, other EU and USA nationals require an entry VISA to enter the diverse country, Morocco. All nationals mentioned before, don't need a VISA for the purpose of tourism for up to 90 days as travelers are issued with a 90-day stamp on arrival. If you are planning a stay for more than 90 days then a resident permit is required, and police department of your residential area in Morocco would issue the same. But, every visitor including the nationals mentioned before, need a passport valid for the duration of stay in Morocco. No additional period of validity beyond this is required. Ensure that your passport isn't damaged and it is stamped when you enter the country. It is advisable to keep 2 pages free in your passport for arrival and departure stamps. In certain cases, it has been observed that applying and receiving a visa can be a process of 20-30 days. Hence, it is essential that you check the timeline with the relevant authority in the country where you intend to make the visa application.

Index34. Essential vaccination

Every traveler should be up-to-date on routine vaccinations before every trip. These vaccinations include measles-mumps-rubella (MMR) vaccine, diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis vaccine, varicella (chickenpox) vaccine, polio vaccine and your yearly flu shot. No specific inoculations are required before your trip to Casablanca. Malaria exists but only in rural areas of Chefchaouen Province, where there is a very limited risk; here insect protection measures are a must.

Index35. Theft and Safety

Casablanca is relatively a safe space than other Moroccan cities. By following common sense safety precautions, you can alleviate 99% of problems in the city of Casablanca. The north of the city comprises of all the tourist attractions, whereas very few maps display the southern end of this rambling megalopolis. Don't travel alone at night and especially in the southern part of the city. Seldom do we meet faux guides in the city of Casablanca. They are limited to the area around the Old Medina. Women travelers should dress modestly and harassing the tourists, especially woman solo traveler is very common in the city. Don't travel alone and inform police if somebody harasses you. Stay Safe!

39. Do's and Don'ts

Dos • Haggle for the best price in Casablanca. • Carry minimum cash and valuable items whilst exploring the city. • Always keep an eye on your luggage when moving places. • Drink fresh orange juice and mint tea. • Spend some time in rejuvenating your body by hammam massage. • Spend some time at Plage Ain Diab. • It is advisable to carry a certified doctor's prescription along with the medicines to ensure hassle free import clearance. Don'ts • Wear short skirts or indecent clothes. • Hug or kiss in public areas, especially near religious places. • Drink and smoke publicly. • Travel alone at night. • It is advisable that do not carry unsealed/ unbranded food articles as the same may be banned for import.

40. Tipping basics

It is not a compulsion to tip in the city of Casablanca. Moroccans themselves leave a few dirhams on a dinner bill of 150 dirhams. In the tourist areas, many of the high-class restaurants will add 10% to the bill, therefore check your bill. If you aren't satisfied with the services rendered then don't tip. On contrary, if you receive great services then give more than 10% of the bill. If you hail a meter-run taxi then tip the taxi driver by rounding up to the nearest 5 dirhams. Hotel maids are paid below par. If you're glad by their services then don't forget to place 15 dirhams inside the pillowcase for a day's service. Tour guides are expected to tip around 25 dirhams for a day.

41.Pet info

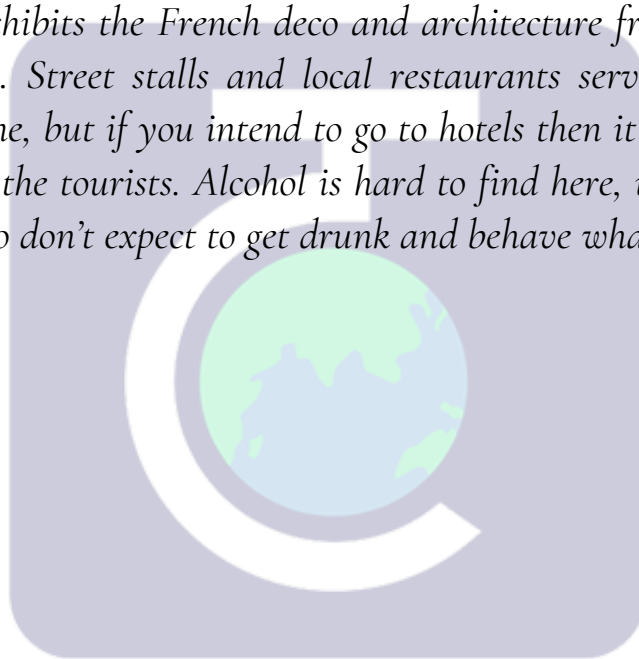

There are a number of hotels in Casablanca that allow you to get your pet along. If your pet meets the following requirement then Morocco won't quarantine your pet:

- Pet Microchip: It is recommended that your pets should be micro chipped with an ISO 11784/11785 pet microchip that has 15-digits and is non-encrypted or should have an identification tag before they are separated from you. Always register your contact information when travelling with pets, so that it is easy to identify your pet.
- Vaccinations: Your pet cat or dog must be inoculated for rabies between 30 days and 3 months prior to entry into the country.
- Veterinary Certificate for Morocco: If you're travelling from the United States or Canada, a USDA (or CFIA) licensed veterinarian should complete a Veterinary Certificate for Morocco within 15 days of travel for endorsement by the USDA or CFIA. For other nationals, the Governing Authority of the respective country is responsible for the import and export of animals, and endorsing the forms by the Moroccan Embassy in the respective country. This needs to be done within 3 days of entering the country. A copy of the Rabies Certificate should be presented for endorsement along with the forms. Post this, it must be sent to the nearest consulate of Morocco with a check for $33.0 and a postage paid return envelope. Hence, your pet passport for your dog or cat to enter the country is complete.
- Before entering Casablanca, ensure that your dog or cat is treated with any internal or external parasite infections.

Conclusion – Why to select this destination

In the 10th century, the Berber fishermen found the modern city of Casablanca and subsequently it was converted into a strategic port called Anfa by the Phoenicians, Romans and the Merenids. Being the largest city of the kingdom of Morocco, the coastal city boasts the world's largest artificial port but it offers no ferry services. The highlight of the city is the landmark building, Hassan II Mosque. Most of the visits in the city are into the museums, which exhibits the French deco and architecture from the French reign in the history of the city. Street stalls and local restaurants serve economical food and defines Moroccan cuisine, but if you intend to go to hotels then it's not such a bargain as they are meant to aim the tourists. Alcohol is hard to find here, usually only in licensed bars and restaurants, so don't expect to get drunk and behave whatever way you want to!
