4. History

The city of Jaipur was discovered by Jai Singh II in 1726. He was the Raja of Amer and reigned over Jaipur from 1688 to 1758. Jaipur was shifted as a base because his earlier capital, Amer, proved to be inadequate for the rising number of inhabitants and plus there was increasing shortage of water. As Jai Singh set out to do the city-planning of Jaipur, he referred to much literature on architecture and architects. He laid out the city based on the principles Vastu shastra and Shilpa Shastra, under the tutelage of Vidyadhar Bhattacharya. The construction of Jaipur city began in 1726 and lasted for four years. During the time span, Jai Singh built a plethora of roads, offices and palaces. Later during the rule of Sawai Ram Singh, Jaipur was transformed into a 'Pink City', a gesture for the welcome the Prince of Wales, and then Edward VII, in 1876. Since then Jaipur is known as India's 'Pink City.'

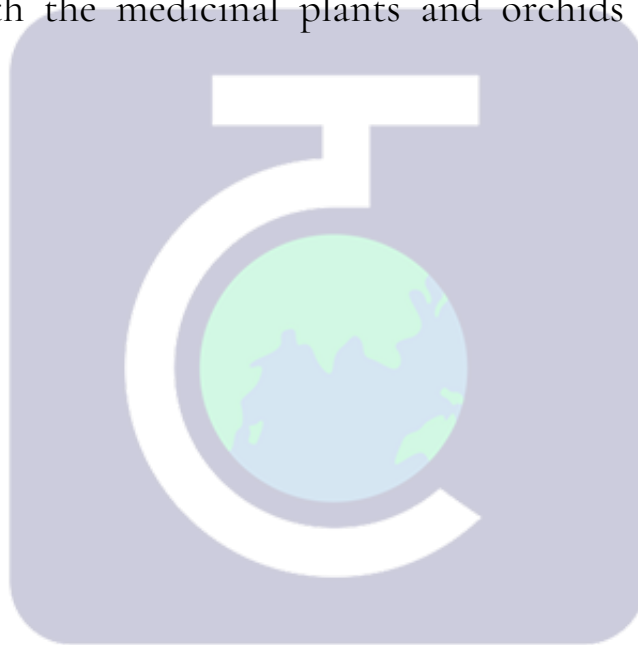

5. Cultural identity

The culture of Jaipur rests heavily on the presence of numerous arts and antiquities. The State and Central governments have worked together to preserve and restore maximum of Jaipur's cultural heritage. There are several palatial structures and museums widespread across the city, showcasing the cultural depth of the city. The city's antiques and handicrafts are its cultural signatures. Due to the city's deep involvement in the field of arts and crafts, its artisans, artists and craftsmen are specially called over to exhibit their skills and works across the country and the world. Jaipur is home to crafts such as: bandhani, block printing, stone carving and sculpture, tarkashi, zari, gota-patti, kinari and zardozi, silver jewellery, gems, kundan, meenakari and jewellery, miniature paintings, blue pottery, ivory carving, shellac work and leather ware. Jaipur also has its own folk dance forms and styles. Tourists can preside over to any of the various festivals and fairs which take place in the city, to get a glimpse of Jaipur's cultural richness.

12. Key local guides and tours

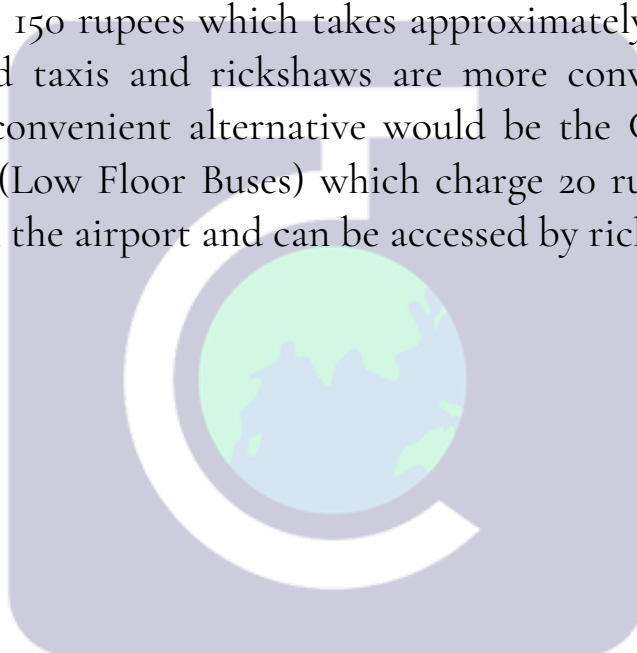

Characterized by stunning palaces and glorious hilltop forts, Jaipur's landscape is fascinating, a bit confusing and somehow chaotic when touring on your own. It is therefore advisable to get a tour guide who will make your experience more interesting by giving you a local's perspective of the city. Most of the tour guides in Jaipur are very friendly people who are eager to take you through the vast culture, heritage and unforgettable charm of Jaipur. The Indian government has licensed tour guides although there is no law prohibiting anyone from working as a tour guide. Therefore, you should be wary of touts posing as tour guides just to extort your precious money. Some of the available tour packages in Jaipur include youth and family tours, food and wine tours, hiking and walking tours, religious heritage tours, nature and wildlife tours, adventure/active tours and shopping tours. All these packages are available at very affordable prices.

13. Transportation hubs

Jaipur Airport (JAI) has recently been upgraded to an International Airport and is located in the southern end of Sanganer which is 15 Km from the city's Centre. It is served by airlines from Dubai, Muscat, Jammu, Mumbai, Delhi and other parts of the world. From the Airport you can hire a taxi at 380-520 Rs which takes 26 minutes (14 km) via Road 26 to reach the city's Centre. A rickshaw ride will cost you 100 rupees - 150 rupees which takes approximately 35 minutes to reach the City. Pre-booked taxis and rickshaws are more convenient though a bit expensive. Another convenient alternative would be the City Bus Service, the Jaipur Airport Buses (Low Floor Buses) which charge 20 rupees. Jaipur Railway station is 12 Km from the airport and can be accessed by rickshaw or taxi.

Conclusion – Why to select this destination

Conclusion – Why choose Jaipur ? A city of forts and palaces, Jaipur clearly has a royal heritage that it is proud to present before the visitors from around the world. As with any historical and cultural city, the Pink City also has its fair share of temples, monuments, gardens, and regional markets that bear a great legacy of long regal associations and have even found a place in the UNESCO World Heritage Sites List. It is quite difficult to count the number of palaces and forts and other royal buildings in this thriving capital city. Among these, Hawa Mahal is a must visit for its architectural and visual extravaganza. The red and pink sandstone structure is the landmark of Jaipur. The innumerable sprawling gardens add to the imperial tone of the city with its lush green landscape, golf and polo grounds, bird watching facilities, picnic spots, fountains, water courses, exhibition grounds and halls, and palatial structures within the park. Being a historical city with a rich cultural past, the city is home to a number of art and cultural museums that provide a glimpse into the lives of the kings and queens and the bygone era through its display of artifacts, paintings, carpets, sculptures, crystal collections, and many other rare exhibition pieces. The museums themselves are architectural specimens with imposing pillars, large halls, breathtaking chandeliers, beautiful colorful floors, and intricately designed gates and entrances. Jaipur is a shopper's paradise. From exquisite silver and precious stone jewelry to exotic Rajais or quilts, the local bazaars teem with a variety of wares for the visitors. Never forget to relish the lip smacking Rajasthani cuisine which is a mix of the royal dishes and local delicacies.
