3. Significance

Once a thriving centre of maritime trade, Dubrovnik is now one of the most sought after holiday destinations in the Mediterranean Sea. In the Middle Ages, the city was as prominent as Venice. It also features in the UNESCO World Heritage Sites List. The city suffered great loss during the massive earthquake of 1667 and also through a series of wars and occupations by many forces. Blessed with verdant natural landscape and crystal clear seas, Dubrovnik is also home to a number of historical monuments that attract millions of visitors from around the globe. This picturesque walled city has safeguarded its tradition even when it has opened its gates to the global population. The Most stunning thing in this city is the old city wall that runs 2km around the city, is 25 meters tall and has a thickness of around six meters. The main purpose of the wall was protection. In 1667, the city was damaged by an earthquake but still maintained some of its major tourist site buildings. It is a major tourist attraction site and even referred to as Pearl of the Adriatic.

4. History

Dubrovnik's historical origins go back to the 7th century. It had been established as an autonomous merchant republic for almost 700 years which was removed by Napoleon in 1806. As a trading region, Dubrovnik has strong business ties with Turkey and India. In the Middle Ages, Dubrovnik also had diplomatic relations with the English court. The story of its growth began in the 19th century, as prior to that Dubrovnik suffered an attack from Venice, and was in its capture from 1205 to 1358. Important developments happened in the 13th century, one of them being the completion of the Old Town. At the same time, the city began to grow politically too. Cultural and industrial boom happened from 14th century onwards. It became a UNESCO world heritage site in 1979 and has a population of over 40,000. The name Dubrovnik came from dubrava which literally means oak grove. This is because there was an oak forest in the city in the ancient times.

5. Cultural identity

Dubrovnik boasts of a very solid cultural fabric. The array of monuments and events it is home to, makes Dubrovnik culturally very strong. The city plays host to the Dubrovnik Summer Festival, a yearly cultural extravaganza which goes on for 45 days. There are live plays, concerts and games. As the patron saint of the city is Sveti Vlaho (Saint Blaise), every year, the holiday gets marked with Mass, parades, and festivities and fanfare which goes on for many days. If you're interested in capturing Dubrovnik's cultural ethos through its architecture, Dubrovnik has a variety of ancient buildings such as the Arboretum Trsteno, the oldest arboretum in the world, dating back to before 1492. Europe's third oldest pharmacy is also situated here. Built in 1317, the structure is situated at Little Brothers monastery in Dubrovnik. Don't miss out on visiting the 72-hectare wooded island of Lokrum, it is a tourist-favorite because it has a fortress, botanical garden, monastery and naturist beach.

12. Key local guides and tours

Dubrovnik offers endless opportunities to explore and enjoy the beautiful land and its attractions. Tours are arranged according to the tastes of the visitors. Walking tours are probably the most enjoyable way to see and understand local life and culture along with sightseeing. Touring through the narrow lanes and quarters of the city and the Old Town area can transport the visitors to a bygone era. Wine tasting tours offer the most exquisite spirits of the Croatian countryside where the vineyards, olive groves, and the ancient villages together with the heady wines create a fairytale land for the tourists. A food tour is an exciting culinary journey into the flavours and secrets of the local cuisine.

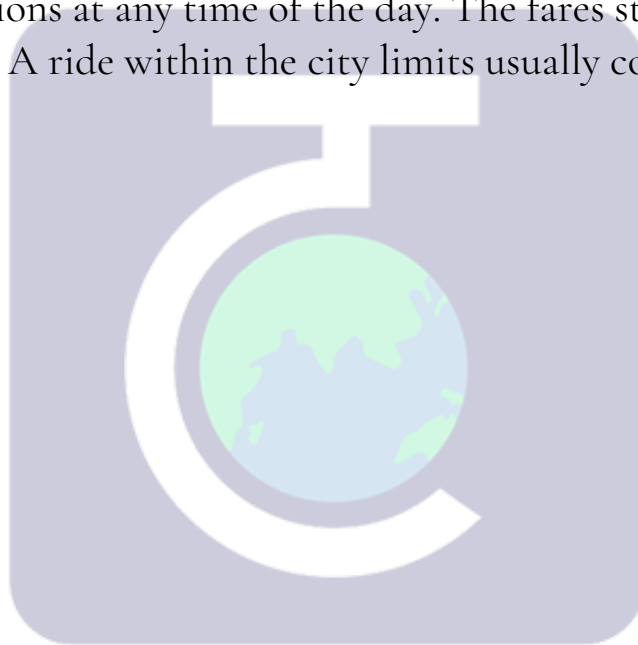

13. Transportation hubs

Dubrovnik Airport serves the city of Dubrovnik. The airport is about 15.5 km away from the city centre. Buses from the airport take 45 minutes to reach the Old Town area and the journey costs about 35 Kn. The fare for a taxi ride from the airport is around 320 Kn. The major bus station in the city is located at Kantafig. Port Gruz is the main port of the city where cruise ships and ferries dock. There is no train service in Dubrovnik. The nearest railway station is at Split which is a 4 hour bus ride away from the city.

Index14. Transportation cost

Dubrovnik is a completely pedestrianised city that can be easily covered by walking. The Old Town area is accessible by local buses. A single journey ticket costs about 12 Kn if bought from kiosks and around 15 Kn if bought on board. Out of town routes have slightly higher rates. The ticket is valid for 1 hour. Day passes are available at select kiosks for approximately 30 Kn. Taxi services can be found at the taxi stations at any time of the day. The fares start at 27 Kn and each kilometre costs 9 Kn. A ride within the city limits usually costs about 100 Kn.

Index15. Baggage allowance

Buses allow luggage that you can carry and will depend if there is available space for it. Some buses will also charge you an extra fee. If you have a lot of luggage, you might consider using a taxi that will charge reasonably depending on the distance covered. You can rent a car or alternatively seek delivery services from one of the delivery companies.

19. Tourist benefits

Tourists and visitors who are not nationals of European Union (EU) countries can enjoy duty free prices at the Dubrovnik Airport. There is a small duty free shop that sells newspapers, travel accessories, souvenirs, spirits and tobacco. Dubrovnik's VAT rate is 13% and tourists outside EU region can apply for tax refund. To claim for tax refund, you must have shopped from tax free stores which always have a global blue tax free shopping logo at their entrances. You should also ask for a form that you are supposed to fill and present it to the customs desk at the airport where you are required to get a stamp. After getting the stamp, you are required to take it to one of the refund booths where they give you your money that is the VAT minus the service charge. You should not park the items far as you are required to present them together with the receipt of payment.

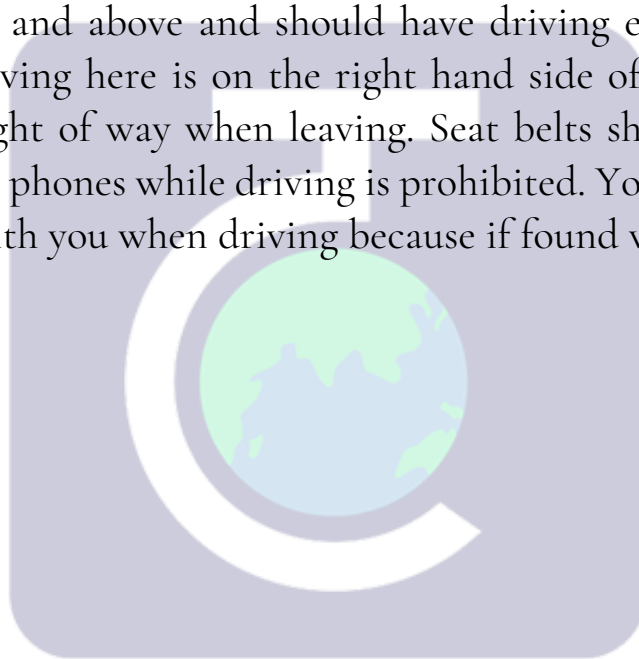

20. Essential local apps

There are many travel apps that save time and energy wasted in finding the best places to eat or the nearest public transport system. Restaurant Dubrovnik is a restaurant search app to find out the best hotels and restaurants near you. The app features a list of the restaurants with address and facilities. Taxi Client Dubrovnik is a taxi booking app for the city. The app also helps in finding routes with the help of maps. Libertas is the local bus schedule app to see the local transport for the urban and suburban areas along with the routes and bus stops.

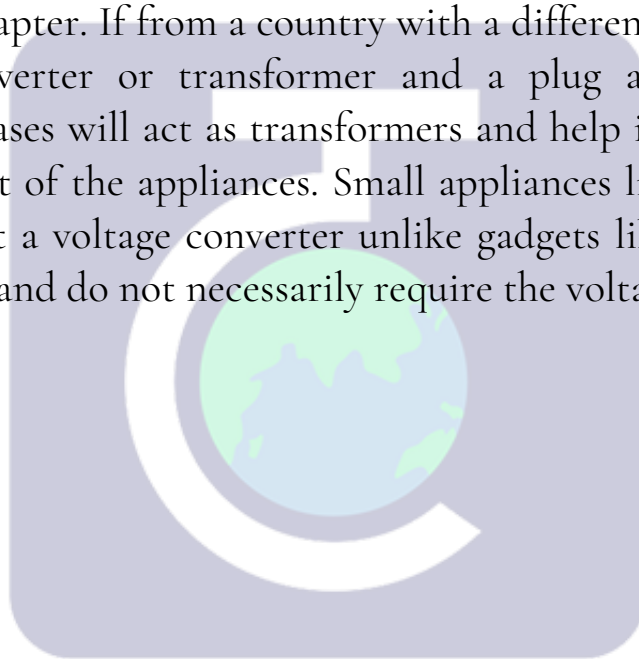

21. Driving

A valid home driving license is the only requirement needed for you to drive in this city. Rarely will the police ask for the International Driving Permit (IDP) though there is no harm in getting one. It is important to note that you can only get it from the state that issued you your driving license. You however should have insurance and registration documents of the car. To rent a car here, you must be 21 years old and above and should have driving experience of not less than three years. Driving here is on the right hand side of the road and school buses always have right of way when leaving. Seat belts should always be worn and the use of mobile phones while driving is prohibited. You should always carry the driving license with you when driving because if found without it, you can be charged and fined.

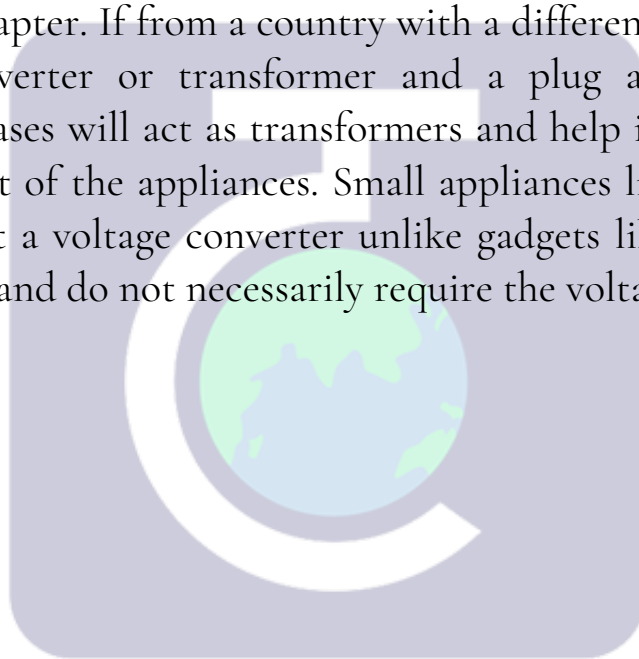

22. Travel essentials

Dubrovnik has a standard voltage of 230 volts with a frequency of 50 hertz. The type of sockets found here are the type C that is the two round pins and type F which are almost the same with type C only that they have earth clips. Type C sockets work well with type E and F plug adapters and type F sockets work well with type C and E plug adapters. If from a country with this type of voltage, you only need a travel adapter. If from a country with a different type of voltage, you need a voltage converter or transformer and a plug adapter. The voltage converters in most cases will act as transformers and help in stepping down the voltage to match that of the appliances. Small appliances like hair dryers might not function without a voltage converter unlike gadgets like the laptops which have in built voltage and do not necessarily require the voltage converters.

Index25. Change vendor's commission, ATM charges

Apart from the exchange counters at the airport, there are many currency exchange offices in Dubrovnik located mostly in the Old Town and port areas. Banks and post offices also provide exchange service. Almost all hotels have exchange desk. The commission for the transaction can vary for the different exchange offices. Normally a 3-4% of the total value of transaction is charged as commission. ATMs that accept foreign cash cards are plenty in the city. The exchange rate depends on the current exchange rate of your bank. There will be a small service charge levied by the card holder's bank. Local banks also charge an operating fee for each transaction.

26. Staying connected

Upon arrival in Croatia, one of the first things which travelers must do is get hold of a local SIM card. Ideally a prepaid SIM card is the best option – regardless of the duration of your stay. Bonbon is the most popular and most serviceable telecom service provider in the country. Travelers can easily buy a Bonbon SIM card at the airport itself, or Bonbon outlets are widespread in supermarkets, gas stations and kiosks across the country. Alternatively one could also go to <http://www.tourist.bonbon.hr/> and order for a prepaid SIM card online. Top-up facility is also available on the website.

All government-related decisions are taken by the legislature.

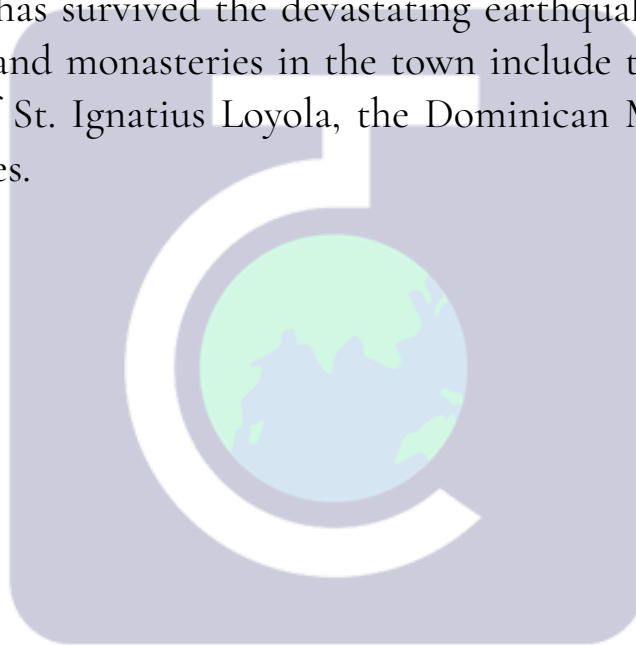

30. Economic Scenario

The economy of Dubrovnik is serviced-based, much like the rest of Croatia. Although the country's economy is largely interdependent on the economies of the nations in the European Union, the Croatian economy has myriad sectors contributing in a big towards the national economy. After the downfall in 2009, the Croatian economy has uplifted itself quite well. At present the mainstays for Dubrovnik's economy, much like Croatia's are: tourism and agriculture. Thanks to the naturism which is dominant in Dubrovnik, a large tourist population comes into the city every year, turning its economic fortunes very significantly. Organic food exports also bring in good revenue nationally.

Index31. Religious belief

Christians form the largest majority of population in Dubrovnik. Among the Christians, the most number of people follow Roman Catholicism. A large number of Christian churches and monasteries of various denominations of Christianity can be found across the city. The Franciscan Monastery at the west end of the town is a marvel in architecture. The Church of the Saviour is the only ancient church that has survived the devastating earthquake of 1667. The other important churches and monasteries in the town include the St. Blaise Church, the Jesuit Church of St. Ignatius Loyola, the Dominican Monastery, and many other smaller churches.

32. Visa requirements

Visitors and tourists from EU countries, Canada, New Zealand, the U.S and Australia travelling to Dubrovnik, Croatia, do not need a visa but a passport with a validity of three months. It is however important to note that you can only stay for 90 days with the passport, after which you should apply for a residence permit. Staying beyond this period of time without the residence permit can lead to deportation. People with Schengen visa are also allowed in to the country. Citizens from all other countries need to get a visa before travelling and you can consult with Croatia embassy in your country. Nationals from Europe Union states are allowed to use their national identity cards at any entry level. Passports are not required of them but it is advisable to carry the passports with you for identity purposes. You can have more information at <http://www.visit-croatia.co.uk/index.php/information-on-croatia/visa-requirements-for-croatia/>. It is advisable to keep 2 pages free in your passport for arrival and departure stamps. In certain cases, it has been observed that applying and receiving a visa can be a process of 20-30 days. Hence, it is essential that you check the timeline with the relevant authority in the country where you intend to make the visa application.

Index38. Do's and Don'ts

It is easier to move around and communicate with the local people if you know the regional rules and regulations as well as the customs and traditions prevailing in that area. Do's - • Dress modestly when away from the beaches • Bring gifts for your host • Keep the headlights on for your vehicles during winter daylight savings time • It is advisable to carry a certified doctor's prescription along with the medicines to ensure hassle free import clearance. Don'ts - • Do not make too much noise or make phone calls to the local people in the afternoon between 2-5 pm • Do not use or trade drugs • It is advisable that do not carry unsealed/unbranded food articles as the same may be banned for import.

39.Tipping basics

Tipping is not mandatory but it is always expected in Dubrovnik. At the restaurants and hotels, you can just round up the bill or leave some change if you are satisfied with the service. Most people tip 10% of the total bill. It is however not a must to tip the 10%, you can tip whichever amount you feel like. The same applies to service providers such as taxi drivers, hair dressers, porter boys and others. It is a good gesture however to leave them little change as most of them earn very minimal wages. The tips go along way and are much appreciated.

40. Pet info

In order to bring your pet animal to Dubrovnik, it has to be first micro chipped at the country of origin. This should be followed by a vaccination against rabies more than 21 days before entry into Croatia. If the animal is coming from a high-rabies country, a blood titer test must be performed 30 days after the vaccination. This test is to be done at a licensed lab to verify the level of rabies antibodies. All the pets arriving from a European Union member country must have an updated pet passport completed by an authorised veterinarian. For the pets coming from non-European Union country, a valid health certificate is necessary.
