2. Neighbouring cities/countries

Darjeeling Is Located On The Northern Side Of The West Bengal State. Siliguri Is Located 48 Miles Away From Darjeeling The Spiritual Calm Of Monasteries To Tracing The Scientific Development In A Science Museum, Malls And Wildlife Sanctuary And From Natural Beauty To Man-made Beauty. Bhutan Is Located On The Eastern Side Of Darjeeling Which Is Nearly 500kms Away, Nepal Is 434kms In The East, On The South Side Bangladesh Is Located At A Distance Of About 545kms, And Sikkim Is Located Just Above Darjeeling Bordered By Bhutan And Tibet, Having The World's Third Highest Mountain Kanchenjunga.

3. Significance

A hill station with a colonial hangover, Darjeeling is a medley of cultures. While the buildings, roads, and other structures are essentially British in style, the people inhabiting this land are a diverse mix of indigenous communities, Anglo-Indians, and people from the neighboring states. Three things in Darjeeling make this town a noteworthy place - tea, train, and tourism. The town is famous for its tea plantations and the aromatic Darjeeling Tea. The Darjeeling Himalayan Railway with its Toy Train is a UNESCO World Heritage Site. This Queen of Hills with its mesmerizing views of the Mount Kanchenjunga rates top in many tourist destination searches and surveys.

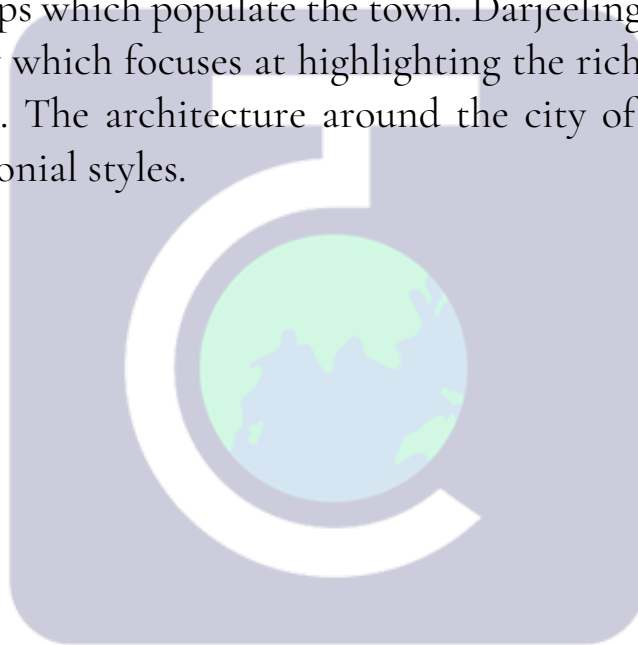

4. History

One of the well-known hilly locations of West Bengal, the history of Darjeeling however is interspersed with that of Sikkim, Nepal, British India and Bhutan. The Kingdom of Sikkim was in control of the hilly areas around Darjeeling, till the early part of the 1900s. The British East India Company came to Darjeeling en route to Nepal-Sikkim border in 1828. In Darjeeling, the British collectively opined and decided that Darjeeling was a well-suited location for the solders. After a number of historic incidents, British signed a treaty and annexed the area east of the Teesta River in 1865. In the following year, Darjeeling district became the size and shape that it is today. It must be noted that Darjeeling thrived immensely as a hill station after it witnessed a growth in the incoming of British residents who were seeking respite from the summers of the plains. The British were quick and proactive in setting up a infrastructural framework in Darjeeling.

5. Cultural identity

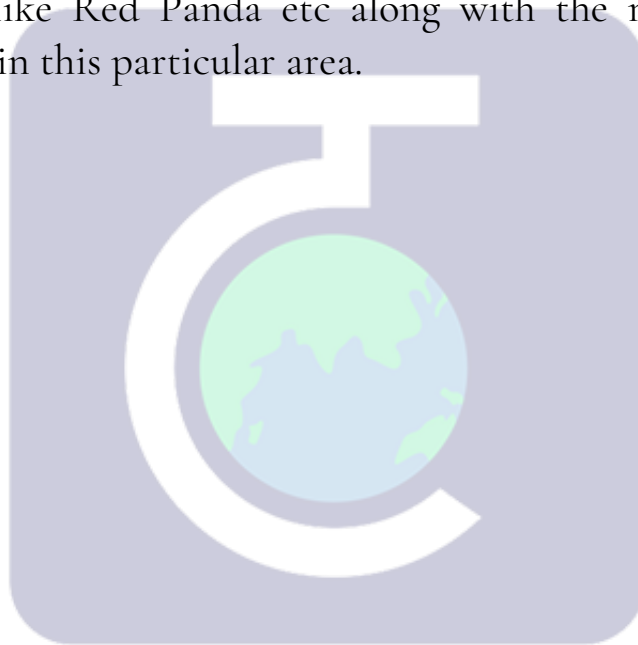

The culture of Darjeeling is mainly a blend of traditions and rituals of the Hinduism and Vajrayana Buddhism – they are the dominant faiths practiced in Darjeeling. Festivals of Dashain, Tihar, Buddha Jayanti, Christmas, Holi, Ram Navami and local festivals are celebrated with much fanfare. The Darjeeling culture is largely distinctive because of the practices followed by the several Buddhist ethnic groups which populate the town. Darjeeling Carnival is a ten-day festival held annually which focuses at highlighting the rich musical and cultural heritage of the town. The architecture around the city of Darjeeling is mainly influenced by the colonial styles.

6. Natural resources

It is a mountainous region and these mountains or hills serve as the source of the natural resources. The timber and the other forest produces, and that of mining and agriculture are taken in account. The amount of rainfall plays a vital role in causing instability of slopes, that's why the tea is produced in abundance. The soil is chiefly composed of sandstone and that of conglomerate formations. The endangered animal like Red Panda etc along with the medicinal plants and orchids are available in this particular area.

Index40.Pet info

Currently India has imposed a ban on foreign tourists bringing their pets into the country. As per the regulations, only those who are relocating to India after two years of continuous stay abroad can bring two pets as baggage. While this is aimed at preventing illegal trafficking of foreign breeds into the country, many tourists find it extremely difficult to leave their pets at their home countries while they are on a visit to India. For those living in India, travelling with pets is not easy as most of the public transport systems do not allow pets with the passengers.

Conclusion – Why to select this destination

Why choose Darjeeling ? Nestled in the Himalayan foothills, this beautiful city is famous for its tea, the Darjeeling Himalayan Railway, and the view of the third highest mountain in the world, the Kanchenjunga. The climate is pleasant for sightseeing walks in this hill station that still has retained a Victorian charm in its old buildings and streets. The city is a haven for nature lovers. The spectacular views of Mt. Kanchenjunga, the golden mountain tops as the first rays of the sun light up the Himalayan ranges, the hills and rivers, the lush greenery, tall evergreen trees, and the sprawling tea plantations provide endless visions of nature's bounty. The tea estates are especially worth a visit during the harvesting season when the alluring aroma of fresh tea wafts through the air enticing even a non tea-drinker to take sip of the golden brew. There is no dearth of thrills in this small city. Mountain biking and trekking in the Himalayan Mountains can be an exhilarating experience for the adventure junkies. The city is also home to the Tibetan refugees whose presence lends this city a multi-cultural character. Their monasteries, settlements, food, and shops stand testimony to the pluralistic spirit of the people. The most exciting aspect of Darjeeling is undoubtedly the Darjeeling Himalayan Railway. It is Listed as a World Heritage Site by UNESCO, the Toy Train winds through the hills making several loops and providing stunning views to the passengers. The food here is a slice of the varied culture this city possesses. It is a mix of ethnic, Tibetan, North Indian, Nepali, and Bengali cuisine with signature dishes like Momos, noodles, Thukpa, and the renowned Darjeeling Tea.
