2. Neighbouring cities/countries

Antwerp Provides Easy Access To Other Beautiful Cities Of Belgium. The City Is 45 Minutes (by Train) From Brussels, 45-50 Minutes (by Train) From Ghent, 45 Minutes (by Train) From Leuven And A Little Over One Hour (by Train) From Bruges. The City Also Has Close Proximity To Some Cities Of Germany And Netherlands. It Is Just 78 Km To Rotterdam In Netherlands, 61 Km To Tilburg In Netherlands, 97 Km To The Hague In Netherlands, 128 Km To Aachen In Germany And 133 Km From Amsterdam In Netherlands.

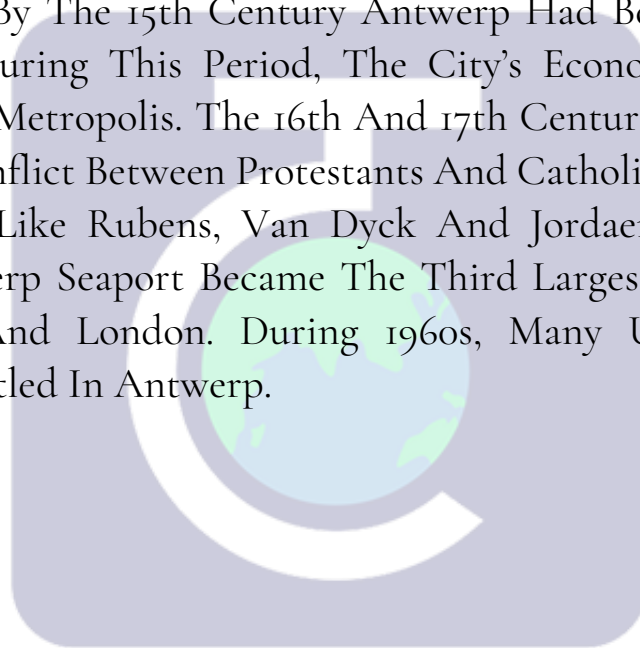

3. Significance

Antwerp Has One Of The Biggest Ports In The World And Ranking Second In Europe. It Also Falls Among The Top 20 Globally. Antwerp Has Long Been An Important City, Both Economically And Culturally. Antwerp Is Renowned As Being The Diamond Capital Of The World. It Has A Beautiful Historic City Center And Is Very Famous For Its Fashion Industry. Antwerp Is A Dynamic City That Offers A Perfect Mix Of History And Present-day Modern Life.

4. History

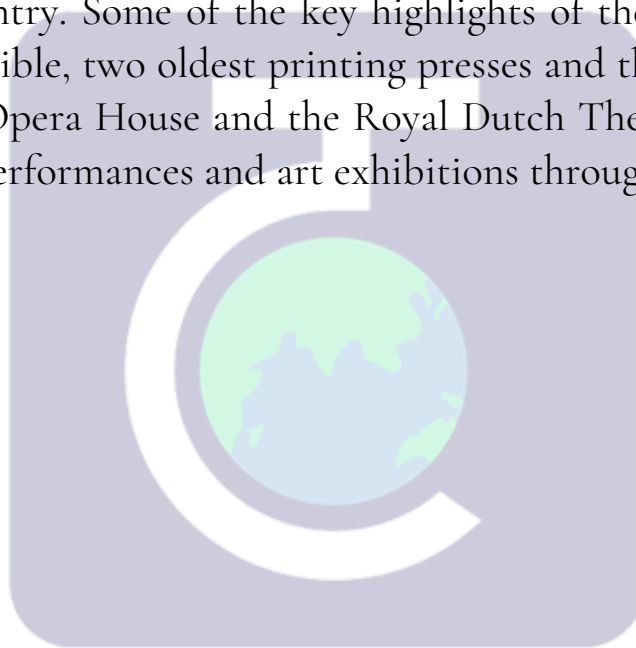

Excavations Show That The City Of Antwerp Was Inhabited In The 2nd Or 3rd Century A.D. The First Fortification Was Built In The 7th Century. With Its Prime Location On The Scheldt River, Antwerp Quickly Came To Be Known As Western Europe's Greatest Economic Centre. By Mid-14th Century, The City Had Become The Leading Centre For Trade And Finance Because Of Its Seaport And Wool Market. By The 15th Century Antwerp Had Become An Important Diamond Centre. During This Period, The City's Economy Boomed And It Turned Into A Top Metropolis. The 16th And 17th Centuries Saw Bitterness As A Result Of The Conflict Between Protestants And Catholics, But Also The Rise Of Artistic Talent Like Rubens, Van Dyck And Jordaens. During The 19th Century, The Antwerp Seaport Became The Third Largest Port In The World After New York And London. During 1960s, Many Unskilled Moroccans Immigrated And Settled In Antwerp.

5. Cultural identity

The performing arts in Antwerp are represented by the city's numerous theatres, museums, cultural festivals, art exhibitions, architectural sites and historic monuments such as the Rubens' House. One of the most popular museums in the city is the Plantin-Moretus museum. Originally a publishing house and a printing plant dating back to the sixteenth-century, this museum is one of the finest museums in the country. Some of the key highlights of the museum include an original Gutenberg bible, two oldest printing presses and the first printed Atlas. The Royal Flemish Opera House and the Royal Dutch Theatre in Antwerp also host many cultural performances and art exhibitions throughout the year.

6. Natural resources

The port of Antwerp not only serves as the economical base of Belgium but is also strategic to the country's ecological network. It includes a large part of the Scheldt estuary which contains many nature reserves protected by the EU legislation. These reserves are fully or partially open to the public. Accessible to walkers, the Opstal Valley has ponds and reed land areas which is why it is also home to many water and marsh-dwelling birds. Kallo Reedbed and Great Reedbed are very popular nature reserves with meadows, ponds and reed marshes. Kallo Reedbed, however, is still under development. Home to the extremely rare 'fen orchid', Haasop nature reserve is open to general public and is a great spot for relaxing nature walks. It has beautiful areas of meadows, alkali marshes and toad ponds and attracts open water as well as meadow birds. Although not open to the general public, Paarden and Ouden Doel Saltmarshes can be easily observed from the Scheldt dike. Thousands of rare birds come here to breed. It is also home to rare species of halophyte (salt-tolerant) plants.

17. Restaurant & Nightlife

When in Antwerp, you can find a lot of cafes and restaurants in the Grote Markt but if you are looking out for some traditional places to eat, you must check out along the smaller streets around the square. Many of them are also clustered in Oude Stad. For trendier cafes, head to Het Zuid. It's a busy area and it is best to make prior reservations. Antwerp is quite a happening city to drink and dance. Opening hours, of most clubs, are flexible and a majority of them close only when the customers leave at dawn. The highest concentration of clubs and bars is in the city centre and the cafe-bars on Groenplaats and Handschoenmarkt are the best to visit for laidback evenings. A good number of them feature live music almost every day.
