4. History

"The First People To Settle Here Were Chinese Explorers. Han Chinese In The Year 1709 Was The First To Set Foot In The City. They Led To The Creation Of Taiwan Capital Centre And Other Formation Of Technologies Industries. However, In The 18th Century, The Taipei Area Was A Habitat To Ketagalan People. There Was A Battle Between The Chinese And Japanese; Wherein, Chinese Lost To The Latter. As Compensation For Their Loss, They Gave The Whole Taiwan Island To Japan In The Year 1895. When Japanese Took Over, They Called Taipei Name To Taihoku. Moreover, They Used This Place As The Centre Of Their Political Ambitions."

5. Cultural identity

"They are great in preserving the aboriginal tribes' customs and valuing the Chinese culture too. Moreover, they respect the treasures their forefathers had preserved for them. Taiwan is highly acknowledged for their spectacular cultural history. Furthermore, it is a town that has a mixture of cultures due to their royalty to their colonizers. Despite having different colonizers they still practice their values. "

6. Natural resources

"Mining in Taipei was a significant industry for everybody. Most residents would mine sulphur, clay gold and coal in the earlier days. Mining in this place dates back to the Qing Dynasty; it is when the island had more than 150 minerals. Mostly the natives Taiwanese used to get minerals from the mountain regions. However, those minerals over the years have been diminishing rendering the country to rely on importing them. The only mining activities in the town include marble and limestone minerals. They mine the limestone for cement, sand, gravel and stone. Additionally, these resources are used for construction purposes whether local or international supply. "

Conclusion – Why to select this destination

"Why To Select This Destination There Are Innumerable Sites And Activities That They Can Participate In. Taipei Has A Number Of Major Attractions That Can Make The Best Out Of Your Trip. The Taipei Zoo Which Is The Most Famous Zoological Garden In Taiwan Because Of Instrumental Research And Conservation That Is Conducted In It, Is The Number One Reason You Should Visit Taipei. However, More Notably Is The Fact That It Is The Largest Zoo In The Whole Of Asia. Its Establishment Can Be Traced Back To 1914 When Taiwan Was Still Under The Rule Of The Japan. The Zoo Displays Animals From All Over The World Including Africa, Australia And The Asian Tropical Forest. For Animal Lovers And Researchers, The Zoo Is A Resource Like No Other In The Whole Of Asia. The Thousands Of Animals At The Zoo Capture The Diversity Of Animals In Asia, Some Of Which Are Endangered With Extinction And Thus Rare To Come Across. Considering The Richness Of Wildlife In The Asian Continent, A Visit To The Zoo Means Experiencing Some Of The Most Exotic Animals From All Over Asia. Beyond The Animal Exhibits And Conservation Efforts Carried Out At The Zoo, It Is A Representation Of The Country's Political History As It Was Established During Japanese Rule. The Concept Of The Zoo Has Been Replicated Across The Country Where Conservation Efforts Are Being Made, But None Compares To The Taipei One. "
